The Foreign Broadcast Information Service subscribes to several of the world's press agencies to provide the United States government with current information about developments in other countries. FBIS is the

From the material which it monitors, FBIS selects and reports the news objectively to other components of the U.S. government and prints a Daily Report which is sold to the public the next day.

At this time we would like to explore the possibility and desirability of subscribing to the Canadian Press. We are interested in obtaining a general file of the world's news which is prepared for newspapers or other press agencies and which runs for a long time (up to 24 hours) each day. Our principal concern is political news, primarily that dealing with Canada, the Caribbean area, and Latin America.

We would prefer to have a teletype circuit terminating at our headquarters in Rosslyn, Arlington County, Virginia but if necessary we could take it at some overseas location, such as our bureau in the Panama Canal Zone.

Before making a final decision we would have to review a sample of the file we would be receiving. Airmailed teletype copies of a few day's output would suffice.

We have in mind a subscription for one year with options for annual renewals. If you have a standard rate schedule we would appreciate your sending us a copy.
